The Art of Trinidad Pino

Trinidad Pino's pictorial work opens a new window to the artistic inspiration of her dream-like theme, CUBA; her birthplace. Her art is not separated from the surrounding world; it is part of it. Neither does she need artificial parameters that define her work and give her a place in the creative landscape of Cuban contemporary art. This great artist uses color capriciously, without subordinating to the drawing or making it her slave, but rather she makes it fulfill an important role in the conjugation of the fantastic atmospheres that fill her works.

Upon looking at her paintings, one realizes their originality. They are all TRINIDAD PINO. They carry that personal signature engraved by many years of work from the practicing of her art. She exhibits in primitive form and sometimes with an infantile perception, reducing the elements to their simpler expression.

Forms and colors give faith of the perfect identification of the creator with her work, and with the contexts that nurture it. Trinidad's work creates a world of happiness and euphoria from which life flows and irradiates in a genuine innocence of forms.
